THE NYANZA MISSION .- In an interesting letter from the Nyanza Mission, in the Church Missionary Intelligencer for August, from the Rev. C. T. Wilson, dated Rubaga, Uganda, we have an account of a Sunday service in the palace of Mtesa. The missionaries seem to have found much difficulty in inducing the chiefs to let them reside in their own town, and on one occasion an old chief came to Mr. Wilson and wanted to turn him out of the hut which Mtesa had built for him. "I refused to go," said Mr. Wilson, "and said I must seo Mtesa first. Accordingly, the following morning I went to Mtcsa's baraza, or court; there Vegetine, and cure these affections. As a blood were a number of the old chiefs present, and, purifier thas no equal. Its effects are wonder after a little preliminary conversation. I asked after a little preliminary conversation, I asked the king if he had sent the chief on the previous day to turn me out. He said yes-that his chiefs did not like my being so near the palace. I pleaded that I was not near, and that Speke was allowed to live quite near the palace. The chiefs got angry, and chimed in then; they said it was a different matter, that like either Speke or Stanley's coming here, and only to come as traders, and not to remain in the country. I saw, then, that it was no use resisting; for though Mtesa does not share their feelings about white men, yet he is evidently afraid of them, and feels that he must, king, however, to build me a decent hut to live in, before he sent me out, and to this he agreed, being the only concession I could get from him. "The Arabs, too, are not all friendly disposed towards us, and try and prejudice Mtesa against us by telling the most abominable lies about us, and our behavior towards other countries. I have had a little trouble from Mtesa himself. I think I told you that, when we first came, he tried hard to get us to promise to give him guns and gunpower, which, of course, we refused to do. For some weeks 11 he could hardly talk of anything else, and brought it up every time I went to see him. I, however, always gave him the same answer, -that we had nothing to do with fighting; that our mission was one of peace, and our object in coming was first to teach the Waganda of Christ and the way to heaven, and next to teach them such useful trades as would make his country rich and prosperous. He has not said anything about it just lately, so I hope he sees it is no use bullying usabout it.

"And now I must tell you something about

as in all tropical countries, we are early here; Ho, about half-past seven every Sunday morning, I set off for the palace, the fact of its being Sunday being announced to the public by the king flying his flag from the flagstaff by his palace. This flag is a nondescript sort of thing, consisting of pieces of red, blue, and white calico sown together. Arrived at the palace, I generally have to wait for the king; as soon as he is ready, we are assembled in one of the rooms of the palace. The service I read three or four verses in English and Mufta then reads them in Kisuahili-the king generally translating into Kiganda. I then and answer any questions that may be asked; then three or four more verses are read and explained; and so on till the chapter is finished. A chapter is then read and explained in a similar manner from the New Testament, and I give a short address, consisting principally of a sort of summing up what we have just read, and drawing particular attention to anything of special importance. We then conclude with some prayers from the prayer book, in English, and Suahili, the people (except the Arabs) all kneeling and joining in the 'Amens. The people, as a rule, are very attentive, and seem to take an interest in what is read, especially in our Lord's parables; and the hearty expressions of assent which come from them, when anything comes to them with special Dissolved ANIMAL Bone. Not one pound of Charleston Phosphate or Navassa Rock enters into its composition. My Ammonia and Potash are obtained from the highest and best known raising of Lazarus, which was listened to with unusual attention. At the close, after speaking of our Lord's power and willingness to save all who came to Him, I urged them to come to Christ at once, while there was time. As soon as I had finished, the king took it up and spoke most eloquently to them, telling them to believe in Christ now, saging they could only do so in this life; when they were dead it would be too late.

A number of American bishops, the guests of the Bishop of Bath and Wells, were pre sent on the 7th at a remarkable gathering in the quiet Somersetshire village of Wedmore, a number of learned men having assembled to celebrate the thousandth anniversary of the signing by Alfred the Great of the peace of Wedmore. Papers were read and speeches made by E. A. Freeman, the historian, Prof. Earle, Bishop Clifford and others, contending for the probability that Alfred lived at Wcdmore and signed the peace there that terminated hostilities between him and his enemics.
